

FRISCO BOMB EXPLOSION KILLS SIX PERSONS

BLAST INJURES MORE THAN 44

Bomb Blows Up in Midst of Throng Viewing Pre- paredness Parade

POLICE ARREST SUSPECT

Explosion Blows Gap Thru Crowd, Blasting Men, Women, Children and Babies

TWO WOMEN BLOWN TO BITS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—At least six persons were killed and forty-four or more were injured by the explosion here today of a timed bomb in the midst of a throng viewing a preparedness parade. The police arrested Frank Josephson, a lodger in a sailors' boarding house, who cried "I didn't do it, I didn't do it" and trembled violently when he was being searched at the station house. The police said he had not been accused of anything.

Charles M. Fickert, district attorney, issued a statement attributing the deed to a mind unbalanced by arguments for and against preparedness. The parade was not interrupted.

Lists of dead and injured as compiled by the police are:

The Dead
Mrs. H. E. Knapp, Alameda, Cal. Dr. George Painter, Berkeley, Cal. O. H. Lamborn, Alameda, Cal. George Lawler, Mill Valley, Cal. Arthur Nelson, Larkspur, Cal. Adam Fox, San Francisco.

Seriously Injured.
Howard E. Knapp, lacerations both legs and body.

Mrs. Kingsley VanLoo, Oakland, lacerations both legs, internal injuries.

Harry Turnbull, fractured skull.

Miss Pearl Seeman, Oakland, leg blown off.

Mrs. L. O. Wymore, Oakland, leg blown off, the leg amputated.

Henry J. Claussen, Alameda, right leg fractured, body lacerated and bruised.

The explosion occurred at Steuart and Market streets on San Francisco's main thoroughfare. The bomb, concealed in a suit case packed with cartridges, bullets, gaspills, glass and scrap iron, blew a gap thru the crowd, blasting men, women, children and babies. The one-story brick building against which the suit case stood was wrecked. The holiday throng cheering a contingent of veterans of the First California Infantry of the Spanish-American war became a shambles. The blast of fifty bands and the roar of drums drowned the cries of the injured who lay mangled and suffering on the sidewalk.

Two Women Blown To Bits
Two women standing beside a man were blown to bits," said Mrs. Kingsley VanLoom of Oklahoma who, with her two children was injured. The police say it is possible that some bodies were blown out of existence.

All the newspapers offices in San Francisco yesterday received the following communication written on Roman script with an indelible pencil many of the words being heavily underscored and signed: "The Determined Exiles from Militaristic Government." Italy, Germany U. S. Italy, Russia, Russia."

Editor—"Our protests have been vain in regards to this preparedness propaganda so we are going to use a little direct action on the twenty second which will echo around the earth and show that Frisco really knows how and that militarism cannot be forced on us and our children without a violent protest.

"Things are going to happen to show that we will go to any extreme, the same as the controlling class to preserve what little Democracy we still have. Don't take this as a joke or you will be rudely awakened. We have sworn to do our duty to the masses and only send warnings to those who are wise but who are forced to march to hold their jobs as we want to give only the hypocritical patriots who shout for war but never go, a real taste of war.

"Kindly ask the chamber of commerce to march in a solid body if they want to prove they are no cowards. A copy has been sent to all papers. Our duty has been done so far."

Suitcase Attracted No Attention

Every possible precaution, police said tonight, was taken but the innocent looking suit case standing where a country visitor of whom there were thousands might have set it down, attracted no attention.

The force of the bomb was astonishing. A piece of lead pipe was blown two blocks into the Northern Pacific railroad waiting room in the Ferry Building. A woman's gold watch, presumably belonging to one of the victims, was blown thru the air and landed in a fruit stand a block and a half away.

Thru this violence, the parade wended without a break. The veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic waiting in Steuart street to fall into line escaped death narrowly and proceeded with the march. An ambulance summoned to care for a fainting spectator stood across Steuart Street when the explosion occurred. The patient had his leg fractured and a man aiding the attendants fell with a fractured skull, but the ambulance steward was uninjured. He packed both men and some other victims into his ambulance and rushed them to a hospital. The official count of the parade indicated that 1,319 persons were in line.

State Suspect Lauded Anarchy
Josephson, the suspect, was arrested while making a speech after the explosion in which he is said to have lauded anarchy and declared:

"This is nothing."
The handle of the suit case which contained the explosives together with part of the lock and pieces of the clock work were picked up near the scene.

Several theories were put forward tonight by the police. One was that the owner of the suit case had intended to set it out along the line of the parade, but was delayed and, knowing the bomb was timed, left it standing by the side of the saloon. One of the marchers in the parade who was near the bomb when it exploded but escaped said:

"I was standing in a crowd right near the point where the explosion occurred. I whirled with the sound. It was like trying to dive thru a tidal wave to get thru the mass of men, women and children surging towards me."

When the parade dispersed the division of California Spanish War veterans, the division nearest the explosion, marched in a body to the city hall and threats were made in an indication meeting that a meeting of anarcho-socialists against preparedness scheduled for tonight would be broken up.

Flags which had been waving gaily a moment before the explosion were blown by the dozen from the hands of the marchers and spectators and showers of broken glass from lofty buildings were dashed on the thousands lining the street. One mother, who had entrusted her baby to the woman beside her snatched her child from her arms as she was falling, having been struck in the abdomen by a flying piece of metal. The child was unhurt. One freakish feature of the catastrophe was the fact that after the wounded had been taken care of, dozens of shoes apparently blown or torn from the feet of those nearest the bomb, were scattered over the scene. Articles of clothing also were found here and there and one woman who escaped with slight bruises and shock, was stripped almost nude by the force of the blast. The proprietor of the cafe outside of which the bomb was placed, stood less than six feet from the fatal suitcase and escaped without injury. He was standing just inside an open doorway watching the parade. The concussion threw him to the floor.

PREDICT BREMEN WILL PASS IN VIRGINIA CAPES BEFORE MONDAY

NORFOLK, Va., July 22.—From the same source that Norfolk learned two weeks ago tonight of the approach of the submarine Deutschland came a prediction today that the Deutschland's sister ship, the Bremen, would pass in the Virginia Capes before Monday.

There was no official authority for the news but it was credited generally. Soon after midnight several vessels, some of them carrying newspaper correspondents and photographers started for Cape Henry thru a heavy rainstorm, hoping to welcome the arrival of the undersea craft. She was expected to go directly to Baltimore, stopping only to pick up a Maryland pilot.

In spite of the news from Baltimore that the custom house records there did not show the clearance of the Deutschland, what are regarded as reliable reports received here say she was cleared today.

N. Y. PROGRESSIVES ADJOURN

Syracuse, N. Y., July 22.—The meeting of the Progressive state committee in a session beginning early this afternoon adjourned at 9 o'clock tonight without carrying out the plan favored by Horace C. Wilkinson and George W. Perkins of endorsing Charles E. Hughes for the presidency of the United States. The adjournment was made without date and with the understanding that there would be no other meeting of the Progressive state committee this year.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Sixty thousand garment workers of this city, locked out or on strike for more than three months, will return to work next week, if an agreement reached today by representatives of the employers and the union is ratified by a referendum vote of the workers, which probably will be taken tomorrow. This announcement was made by Louis Levy attorney for the manufacturers. The union, according to Levy gained its principal demands in modified form. They include a wage increase of five per cent, a 49 hour week, the preferential employment of union over non-union workers and a minimum piece work wage.

Altho one of the longest strikes on record, there has been no violence. It is estimated that the money loss to the workers, employers and the city generally is in excess of $50,000,000.

It was said that an appeal sent to President Wilson urging federal intervention probably had much to do in bringing the employers and workers together. This action was taken several days ago. Two federal mediators were expected from Washington early next week.

RICE AND POLK DISCUSS BLACKLIST

Anticipate Protests From Firms Named in British List

EVANS DEFENDS ACTION

Chief of England's Department of Foreign Trade Replies to Criticism of Action

DENIES SUB-ROSA LIST EXISTS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Anticipating protests to the state department from the firms named in the British blacklist Sir Cecil Spring-Rice had another conference today with acting Secretary Polk in which the subject was informally discussed.

Did not Send List to Page.

It is understood here that the British government did not communicate the blacklist to Ambassador Page, because the subject was regarded as one purely international in its legal aspects. The allies have found that President Lincoln on August 16th, 1861, issued a proclamation declaring that "all commercial intercourse between the states in insurrection and citizens of other states thru the ports of the United States is unlawful and will remain unlawful until such insurrections shall cease."

This was followed by an act of congress on May 26th, 1862, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to refuse clearance to ships where their cargoes "whatever the ostensible destination," were intended for points or places in the possession or under the control of insurrectionists against the United States. In the British view in these two acts are found ample warrant for the present act of the British government in forbidding its own subjects to treat or trade with persons regarded as enemies of their country.

British authorities here contend no legitimate American firm or corporation will be injured by the blacklist nor German firms in the United States which have confined their operation to their own line of business.

Evans Defends Action

London, July 22.—In reply to criticisms which publication of a list of 87 American individuals and firms, with which English firms are forbidden to do business under the trading with the enemy act, has met in America and here, Laming Worthington Evans, chief of the department of foreign trade made the following statement to the Associated Press today:

"The statutory list has been compiled from one point of view only, namely, to prohibit British citizens strengthening our enemies. The test from supporting firms which are applied before putting a firm domiciled in America on the statutory list is this:

"Is that firm by its business operations strengthening our enemies?" "The strength of a belligent does not consist only in the resources and supplies available in its own territory but also on those upon which he can draw from neutral countries. As a result of the semi-military organization which the German government has imposed on its commerce, every German firm throughout the world is an outpost, seeking to do its utmost to assist Germany in her effort to dominate Europe and the fact that they are established in neutral countries in many cases makes them more formidable and their activities less easy to combat."

"Can it be claimed fairly that, instead of endeavoring to frustrate them, they should be actually assisted by British firms, British cables, British banks and by shipping lines."

French System Recognized

"Long before the British statutory blacklist was put in operation the French government prohibited its citizens from doing business with enemy subjects. It can hardly be contended that the statutory blacklist is more onerous to trade than the French system, which long since was recognized by international law."

"The blacklist system is a piece of purely domestic legislation which simply prohibits British subjects from dealing with certain persons. The right of any government to impose such prohibition on its own nationals is hardly open to dispute."

"Before the adoption of the blacklist there was an unofficial blacklist in existence. Experience has shown that uncertainty on the part of both British and neutral traders as to who is and who is not on the blacklist would be far more injurious to commerce than the publication of the Senator Lee of Maryland told the senate that danger of a conflict with Mexico was not passed, that it was unwise to reduce preparations for one and that it was deplorable to intimate to Mexico, by the senate's action that the United States had no serious intention of armed action.

POLK AND ARREDONDO HOLD FIFTH CONFERENCE

NO ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE FOLLOWING MEETING

Continued Delay in Arriving at Agreement Serves to Render Some Officials Less Hopeful of Ultimate Result of Conference

Washington, July 22.—Acting Secretary Polk held his fifth conference today with Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador-designate in an effort to arrive at an agreement regarding the proposed negotiations for settlement of matters in dispute between the two governments. The fact that no announcement followed today's meeting was construed to mean that a satisfactory reply had not been received from Mexico City to amendments the Washington government has proposed to the commission plan suggested by General Carranza.

The United States is urging that wider latitude be given the negotiators, rather than the narrow instructions proposed in the last Carranza note. Final decision upon the commission plan itself rests largely upon the determination of the question of the subjects the commission would be empowered to discuss.

It was intimated today that continued delay in arriving at an agreement as to the form and scope of the negotiations has served to render some officials less hopeful of the ultimate result of the conferences between Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo. In some quarters the belief is held that if a compromise has not been reached by the middle of next week, little is to be expected from the present efforts to find a peaceful solution of the border troubles.

It was stated semi-officially today that the increasing seriousness of the operations of bandits in the Parral region, said to be headed by Villa himself, in no way affected the diplomatic discussions with the de facto government.

Whatever force Villa may have assembled, he will remain a bandit in the eyes of the United States government and while if a commission were named it might go into details of the bandit's operations, capture and punishment of Villa will be sought in every possible way.

DE PALMA WINS FEATURE EVENT AT KANSAS CITY SPEEDWAY

Eddie O'Donnell is Second and George Buzane Third—O'Donnell Suffers Only Accident of the Day

Kansas City, July 22.—Taking the feature event of a day's program Ralph DePalma, driving a German-made car won the 100-mile motor race at the new one and one eighth mile speedway here today. His time was 1 hour 42 minutes and 54 seconds, an average of speed of 58.65 miles an hour, almost eight miles below the world's record. Eddie O'Donnell was second and George Buzane third. Art Klein finished fourth and Art Johnston fifth. Only five of the twelve starters finished. The purse was $5,000.

Eddie O'Donnell suffered the only accident of the day when in the 25 mile speed trial his car broke a steering knuckle as he was making the turn on the back stretch and the car shot thru the fence and down an embankment. O'Donnell received four fractures on his left arm, severe cuts on his face and body and a possible fracture of the skull. Physicians tonight believed he would recover. Jimmy Murphy his mechanic was uninjured.

STRIKE SITUATION AT CEMENT MILLS REACHES ACUTE STAGE

OTTAWA, Ill., July 22.—The strike situation between the cement manufacturers and their employees who have gone out was at an acute stage tonight, neither side, it appears, being willing to give an inch on the question of hours of work now under dispute.

The increase in pay offered by the operators to twenty-five cents an hour amounting to about $225,000 in the annual payrolls apparently did not satisfy the strikers. At a mass meeting today, strikers voted almost unanimously in favor of an eight hour day. It was said that the operators may attempt to open the mills Monday.

POET RILEY DIES IN INDIANAPOLIS

Suffered Stroke of Paralysis Saturday Morning But Seemed to Improve

ONLY HIS NURSE AWAKE

Poet Returned From Florida Only Last May and "Never Felt Better" as He Termed It

FUNERAL PROBABLY MONDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 22.—James Whitcomb Riley died tonight at 10:50 o'clock while only Mr. Riley's nurse was awake in the poet's home.

He had asked for a drink of water and reclined on his bed again. Miss Clementia Prough, the nurse, resumed her vigil and, noticing that the poet seemed not to be resting easily approached his bed. Mr. Riley died before she reached his side. Mr. Riley's death was due to paralysis. He suffered a violent stroke about 7:30 o'clock this morning, and the members of his household were greatly alarmed, but under Dr. Carleton B. McCullough's ministrations the poet seemed to improve and early this evening was regarded as much better.

Summons Members of Family

Information was given to the public that Mr. Riley was in no danger, but within a few hours he was dead. Members of Mr. Riley's family were summoned immediately. They are his brother-in-law, Henry Eitel; his nephew Edmund H. Eitel and his niece, Miss Elizabeth Eitel.

Mr. Riley suffered his first violent attack of paralysis July 10th, 1910. He recovered and seemed to be in good health until he was stricken a second time. This stroke caused a complete paralysis of his right side. The severity of the stroke were away somewhat until the poet's hand seemed the most affected. Mr. Riley's determination to battle the illness was shown at that time when he set about laboriously to learn to write with his left hand. For several years Mr. Riley has spent his winters in Florida, where he went accompanied by members of his household. He returned only last May and "never felt better" as he expressed it, on his arrival. Since that time he has been in excellent spirits and seemed unusually strong. Dr. McCullough said, Mr. Riley had been able to go to his publishers frequently and was out in his automobile every day, even as late as Friday. The combination of high spirits and bodily strength seemed convincing that he was far from being on the verge of a fatal illness.

Mr. Riley was born in 1853, but was reticent as to his exact age. One of the most unique celebrations in the country was held in his honor October 7th, 1915, when Riley Day was observed by a banquet in Indianapolis, and in schools of the country attended by more than 1,000,000 children. Men prominent in business and politics from all over the country assembled to do the poet homage at the celebration and many congratulatory messages were received from abroad on that occasion. Of late years Mr. Riley had not appeared at public gatherings to any great extent, but in nice weather could be seen on the streets of Indianapolis in his automobile.

Mr. Riley never married. His nearest living relative is a sister, Mrs. Mary Payne of New York.

The funeral services probably will be held Monday according to the relatives at his home tonight. Burial will be in the Riley family lot at Greenwood, Ind., which town was his boyhood home.

THE PASSING OF JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

Indiana in the years has produced a notable group of literary men and possibly the most conspicuous is James Whitcomb Riley, who has written his last verse. The "Hoosier Poet" laid down his pen last night and closed his eyes, to open them in the eternal city. So today myriad friends, scattered all over the world, who somehow had a feeling that Riley would live on for years, will quote the poet's own lines: "Dead, dead, dead. We thought him ours alone and none so proud To see him tread the rounds of fame and lift his head Where sunlight ever shone: But now our aching eyes are dim And look thru tears in vain for him." James Whitcomb Riley was born about sixty years ago. As a boy and young man he sought to write verses but they attracted more derision than praise from friends and observers who thought the dreamer had better turn his time to more practical purposes. But as years came the latent talent won recognition and Riley's fame was spread as the poet of childhood. He was a bachelor himself but somehow seemed to have the child heart, and thru all the decades that he lived, kept that intellimate touch with childish thought and fancy that breathed thru his poems an inimitable charm.

Other products of his pen were more pretentious in their literary value, but when these have been forgotten James Whitcomb Riley will be remembered as the poet of childhood and of the people. Thru all his poetry there runs a spirit of optimism, a sort of sunlight that refuses to be darkened by the clouds of discontent or disaster. That fine cheerfulness of spirit, that hopeful buoyancy helped to make Riley the poet of childhood, beloved alike by those of childish years and by grown ups who could more truly appreciate the value of one who could grow old and still sing the songs of childhood.

Riley's writings teach that the joys of childhood should live thru after years, and that real happiness is not a matter of environment but springs from the heart. Perhaps no written lines of the poet give a better index to his heart and thought better than these:

"Then let us one and all, be contented with our lot;

The June is here this morning, and the sun is shining hot, O! Let us fill our hearts up with the glory of the day

And banish ev'ry doubt and care and sorrow far away! Whatever be our station, with Providence for guide,

Such fine circumstances ort to make us satisfied;

For the world is full of roses, and the roses full of dew, And the dew is full of heavenly love that drips fer me and you."

THE PEOPLE PAY FOR FRANKED POLITICAL MATTER

It's an evil practice that has often been commented upon but it is worthy of more comment. The statement refers to the habit that they have in congress of inserting in a congressional record speeches delivered elsewhere and then having thousands of copies of the speech printed at public expense and franked thru the mails for no other than political purposes. The latest instance is the speech of Hon. Carter Glass of Virginia, delivered at the Jefferson day celebration at Washington April 13.

Copies of this speech were received by Morgan county people Saturday under the frank of Congressman Henry T. Rainey, and no doubt all other counties in this congressional district are remembered with like generosity. The distribution was not limited to this district, either, and it is safe to say that the free mailing privilege of congressmen all over the United States was used for the very same purpose of sending the Hon. Carter Glass' address in to every voting precinct in the United States.

On the outside of the envelope appear two paragraphs from the speech and these lines show that the speech had the very purpose of claiming for Woodrow Wilson the greatest achievement of the age by using his great influence for the passage of the federal reserve act. Two or three lines at the beginning of the speech state that Mr. Garrett addressed the chair when congress was in session and asked unanimous consent to print in the record the speech which had been delivered at the Jefferson banquet in Washington the night before. There was no objection and therefore the speech was ordered printed in the records. There is nothing to show how many congressmen were present to give their consent and possibly when Mr. Garrett arose and addressed the chair most of the honorable representatives were absent. But very likely the same action would have been taken if they had been present, for the evil custom is of long standing.

However, the most flagrant misuses of the franking privilege have developed recently. There is something radically wrong with a public that continues to permit the officials sent to Washington to seek to perpetuate themselves and their friends in office by a campaign of publicity thru the mails—publicity sent out entirely at the expense of the public. Candidates for state offices spend thousands upon thousands of dollars for the printing and posting of campaign matter that they wish to send out. Is there any reason why men holding national offices and seeking re-election should charge up all this expense to their constituents? Putting an end to the abuse of the franking system is one of a number of reforms needed at Washington.

WAVERLY MAN, RIDING COAL TRAIN, BADLY INJURED IN QUARREL

Hit in Head by Half Drunken Companion, Thomas Lyon at Passavant Hospital with Fractured Skull.

Thomas Lyon of Waverly is at Passavant hospital with a fractured skull and bad facial injuries, the result of a train fight Saturday evening while Lyon and two companions were returning from Virden on a C. B. & Q. freight. The men had been drinking, it is said. In the course of an argument, Lyon was hit in the head with a piece of coal. Brought to Passavant hospital, the wound was sterilized but the patient's condition did not encourage operation.

Lyon was accompanied to Jacksonville by Dr. M. F. Woods, who gave emergency attention when the former arrived at Waverly. The trip to this city was made by auto.

No arrests had been made at a late hour Saturday night.

GREAT MORAL LESSON

No words ever thundered by the Evangelist W. A. Sunday, were more pointed and truthful, nor sounded a more earnest warning.

Arthur Burrage Farwell, head of the Chicago Law and Order league, makes the following statement in his letter:

Two of the worst evils which destroy character and life are vice and intoxicating liquor. When designing men desire to ruin a girl, usually liquor is their strongest ally. Every boy and girl should understand the dangers and be prepared to meet them. Study this picture, 'The Little Girl Next Door.' It represents the truth.

"It shows methods employed to trap young girls into a vicious life and emphasizes the necessity of young people being told of the dangers ahead. It is a great moral sermon."

FREE GOVERNMENT DREDGING CRAFT FROM ENTANGLEMENT

DAVENPORT, Iowa, July 22.—After a twenty hour entanglement with a piece of the government bridge, spanning the Mississippi river between Davenport and Rock Island the United States dredging craft Ellen and her contingent of quarter boats, dredges, pontoons and barges was pushed from her precarious position late this afternoon by the little government boat Ruth. The Steamers Lone Star, Harriet and St. Paul assisted in the undertaking. The exact time that the fleet was confined was twenty hours and five minutes.

REPORT SERIOUS ENGAGEMENTS BETWEEN ARABS AND TURKS

LONDON, July 22.—Authentic news has been received in Cairo, Egypt, says Reuters' correspondents, that serious engagements took place recently near Medina, Arabia, between Arab revolutionists and the Turkish garrison. The garrison made a sortie against the Arabs, who were besieging the town from the southern side.

In the fighting the Turks are said to have lost 2,500 men while losses of the Arab forces were placed at 500. The Arabs captured a large quantity of arms.

NAVAL WEDDING IN MAINE.

Blue Hill, Me., July 22.—The picturesque little church of this town was the scene of a brilliant naval wedding at noon today, when Miss Springer Harbaugh Strobel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor O. Strobel of Philadelphia, became the bride of Lieutenant S. Coleman Starr, of the United States Navy. Lieutenant Starr is attached to the new battleship Oklahoma and a number of the officers of that ship attended the wedding in full dress uniform. The ceremony was followed by a reception at Lappahanink, the summer home of the bride's parents.

SAILORS FROM 50c TO $1.00, CLOSING OUT SALE. MILLER'S HAT SHOP.

MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS GETTING THE HOOK

The season's record of major league games to date indicates that big time pitcher able to go the entire distance is fast becoming a rare bird. The daily box scores almost invariably show the names of from two to half a dozen flingers appearing for a single team in a nine-inning contest.

President Ban Johnson of the American league has voiced a protest against the continual changing of pitchers during the game. He expresses the belief that the pitchers would gain more confidence in their ability and thereby do better work if they were permitted to stick on the slab.

In this particular, however, the big league pitchers are not inclined to agree with the boss of the American league. They declare that the pitching is off-color this year and consider themselves lucky if they have one flinger in their stable who can twist 'em over for a full game. As evidence of the wisdom of their system in changing pitchers so frequently, the managers call attention to the fact that the average hits per game is no greater than in past years, nor has the number of 300 stickers increased. At the close of last season 17 batsmen—eleven in the American and six in the National league—had marks of 300 or better. At the present time, with half the season yet to be played, there are fewer than a dozen batsmen in each league traveling in the select circle.

This line of dope seems to make the managers' method of handling their pitchers look right. It also makes the slabs look a bit weak. Nowadays it seems to take a small squad of pitchers to do what one heavier formerly accomplished.

No fewer than 44 pitchers worked in the sixteen major league games played on a recent date. Of this number Alexander, of the Phillies, was the only flinger able to go over the entire route of nine innings. The Boston Americans, on the day in question, used Ruth and Foster to defeat the Chicago White Sox, for which team Danforth, Scott, Ciolette, Russell, Benz and Walsh did the pitching.

On the same day the Yankees, with Culllop, Caldwell and Russell doing the slab duty, defeated the Cleveland Indians, who used Beebe, Combe and Gould in the box. Meyer and Bush of the Athletics defeated Hamilton, Groom, Wellmann and Parks, the Browns quartet of heavies, while the Tigers, with Danks and Cunningham doing the twirling, defeated Washington, the Senators using Gallia, Ayres, Dumont and Boehling in a vain attempt to bring home the bacon.

This record for one day, which is a fair sample of what appears to have become an established practice, this year, indicates that all the big league outfits are working along the same lines in the handling of their pitcher staffs. "Put 'em in and take 'em out" has become the rule. With all the clubs it appears to be the same. A couple of safe bingles is the cue for the heavier to beat it to the shower and civilian scenery.

RAILROAD WORKERS DECLARE ROADS PLAY FOR TIME

Oppose Plan of Submitting Wage Controversy to Inter-State Commerce Commission

Cleveland, Ohio, July 22, 1916.—The following statement was issued today by the Transportation Brotherhoods:

The proposition of the railroads to refer the demands of the railway brotherhoods for an eighthour day to the Interstate Commerce Commission is nothing but a proposition to gain time for the railroads and to waste time for the men.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is not now equipped to undertake this task. In order to undertake it the Interstate Commerce Commission Act would have to be radically amended by Congress. Such an amendment would require at least a month for passage, and upon its passage several months would be required before the Commission could actually begin the work thus imposed upon it.

Commission Overburdened

Whatever may be the desirability of empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to handle wage disputes, this is not the time to do it. The commission is overburdened with duties. A bill has been pending before congress, urgently advocated by the railroads themselves, calling for an increase in the membership of the Commission in order to enable it to handle cases already on its docket.

A resolution is now pending in the House, after having been passed by the Senate, calling for an investigation by a joint committee of congress into the need for railroad legislation, particularly into the need for legislation affecting the Interstate Commerce Commission. This resolution was introduced at the request of the railroads and for the express purpose of heading off any railroad legislation till a comprehensive survey of the entire situation should have been made. Representatives of the railroads have urged this resolution for these reasons.

Yet now the railroads, forgetting these arguments, and frightened at the prospect of being forced to yield to the brotherhoods, are demanding hasty and ill-considered legislation, the first effect of which would be to give them an advantage in their dispute with their employees.

The Commission only has authority over rates, etc., on interstate traffic and has no control over matters that are wholly within a state.

If authority is conferred on the Interstate Commerce Commission by Congress, to fix or exercise any control over wages, it would only apply to employees whose runs are from one state to another.

Would Mix Issues

Inasmuch as the bulk of trainmen, work wholly within a state, it would result in the worst muddle possible. A few employees having their wages fixed by the U. S. and the rest of them standing just where they are now.

The claim made by the railroads that as the Interstate Commerce Commission has authority over freight rates, it should also have authority over rates of pay, is a clever and seemingly plausible argument, put forward to secure public sympathy.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has always taken cognizance of wages or labor in passing upon freight rates. One of the leading arguments of the railroads in making application for authority to advance their freight rates has been that outlays for employees have increased and as a consequence that they should be permitted to charge more for their services.

Elaborate statistical exhibits have in all general rate cases been presented by the railroads to the Commission, which set forth in great detail how many more dollars are paid out in wages and salaries now as compared with former years. As a consequence, the Interstate Commerce Commission has always passed on the question of the relation of wages to freight and passenger rates, and to total operating costs.

blacklist. It is for this reason that steps are being taken to give the list as much publicity as possible.

Blunder to Publish List.

"It has been said that it was a blunder to publish the list when a French loan was underway. Clearly it would have been a blunder to include friends of our French allies. But look at the list. Is there one among them who has not shown in unmistakable measure that his sympathies and, more still, his active help are given to our enemies? "All the facts were carefully weighed before the decision was arrived at and I have no doubt that there is not a name on the list which is not there on evidence which fully justified its inclusion."

Mr. Evans denied that a sub-rosa blacklist now exists, the only basis for such a charge, he said being the fact that certain firms are under suspicion and British traders, therefore have been warned to be careful in dealing with them.

Mr. Evans also pointed out that there are hardly more than 24 entities in the American list one tenth of the list being occupied by the Knauth Nachod and Kuhne company as, including the directors they appear eight times. Zimmerman and Forsyth appear six times, Muller, Schall and company, five times, MacLaren and Gentles four times, while other firms appear two or more times.

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN CENTENARY TO BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED

Great American Actress Honored in Boston Hall of Fame.

Boston, Mass., July 22—Tomorrow will be the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charlotte Cushman, the first great American actress and the only representative of the theatrical profession whose memory has been honored with a tablet in the Hall of Fame. Boston, the city of Miss Cushman's birth and death, is arranging for an appropriate observance of the centenary. The principal features of the observance, however, will be deferred until later in the year, when the season will be more favorable for the holding of exercises in which many eminent representatives of the dramatic profession are expected to participate.

Charlotte Cushman has not been dead so long as to take the memory of her histrionic powers back into the traditional past. She died on Feb. 8, 1876, and many are living in Boston today who enjoyed her intimate acquaintance and who can recall the nobility of her acting.

Miss Cushman, who was in her sixtieth year at the time of her death, began her professional career early in life. She first gave her attention to singing, for which she had a genuine talent. Soon after her debut as a singer, when she appeared as the countess in the "Marriage of Figaro," she went to New Orleans to fill an engagement, and there faced the tragedy of her life. She lost her voice thru the effects of change of climate and an effort to force her voice to a soprano.

In this crisis Charlotte Cushman showed her strength of character and her determination not to be crushed by defeat. She turned her attention to dramatic art, and made her first appearance as Lady Macbeth, in New Orleans. Then she returned North, and began her career as an actress.

She was primarily a tragic actress, and her great Shakespearean triumphs were made in the characters of Lady Macbeth, Ophelia, Katharine, the shrew, Viola, Pauline, Rosamond, and Juliet. She also essayed with great success three male roles—Hamlet, Romeo, and Cardinal Wolsey. Of these, her greatest success was in Romeo, first played in England with her sister, Juliet. Charlotte Cushman is said to have been the first woman who ever played Romeo.

When the great English tragedian Macready made his American tour in 1844 he asked Miss Cushman to assist him in his repertory. It was at his invitation in 1845 that she went to England where, he said, "your talents will be appreciated at their full value." Macready was not mistaken. Her success was immediate, and her wonderful abilities on the stage speedily became the sensation of London.

She returned to America in 1849, but visited England many times. Her villa in Rome and her long residence and delightful social life there contributed another element of peculiar interest to her life.

Miss Cushman took many farewells of the stage—in fact, it is said that she still holds the record for the greatest number of farewell performances. But the final farewell took place in 1874. Her last appearance in New York was on the night of Nov. 7 of that year in Booth's Theater. The play was "Macbeth," George Vanderhoff playing that character to Miss Cushman's Lady Macbeth. It was one of the most memorable theatrical nights in the metropolis. Long before the performance commenced every seat in the theater was filled, while among the prominent persons present were Pete Cooper, William Cullen Bryant, Samuel J. Tilden, Joseph Jefferson, Dion Boucicault, John Gilbert, William H. Vanderbilt and Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock.

At the close of the performance a farewell parting took place on the stage. William Cullen Bryant made an address and an ode written by Richard Henry Stoddard was read. Her journey from the theater thru Twenty-third street to the Fifth Avenue Hotel was in the nature of a triumphal procession. Her coach was drawn by four horses, preceded by the Ninth Regiment band, and hundreds of men carrying lighted torches were in line. The band serenaded the actress and she obligingly appeared on the balcony and waved her farewell to the cheering crowd. Her final appearance on the stage was made a few days later in Boston.

The ONLY Auto Route Into the Park

The wonderfully beautiful scenery along this new route to America's only Geyserland has already won everlasting admiration from the enthusiastic tourists who have traversed this picturesque course. Experienced travelers, who know what's what, agree that in the sustained beauty and grandeur of the scenery it far exceeds the Park itself, except in one particular—the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone River.

The route lies thru the "Buffalo Bill" country, up the great Canyon of the Shoshone River and across the evergreen-covered mountains of the Absaroka Range via beautiful Sylvan Pass.

If you visit the Yellowstone this summer, be sure and go at least one way via the Cody Road. You won't regret it. We'll be glad to help you plan your trip. Burlington trains run direct to Yellowstone Park.

THE RURAL SCHOOL TERM

(By J. L. McBrien, School Extension Agent U. S. Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.)

The first problem in the program of the Federal Bureau of Education in its nation-wide campaign for better rural schools is that of a longer school term. "A school term of not less than 160 days for each child" is the minimum term, according to Commissioner Claxton, which all States with a shorter term should strive to reach.

The latest data (1910) available concerning the length of term for urban schools and for rural schools separately give the average number of days school was in session during the year for urban schools, 184.3, and for rural schools 137.7. "For United States as a whole the urban schools are in session 46.6 days longer each year than the rural schools", says A. C. Monahan, the Bureau's Specialist in Rural School Administration.

In Rhode Island and Connecticut, the difference between the urban and rural school term is 3.8 days, while in South Carolina it is 88.5 days. The average number of days in the rural school term in the several States ranges from 90 in New Mexico to 190 in Rhode Island. Four States—New Mexico, North and South Carolina, and Arkansas—each had in 1910 a rural school term of less than 100 days, while Florida had a rural term of exactly 100.1 days. "But," declares Mr. Monahan, "these averages do not tell the whole story. There is much variation above and below the average, there are many school districts, and even many counties, where the term for the past year was not over 60 days."

From the reports for the school year ending June 30, 1915, there were 15 rural school districts in Arkansas that held no school that year; 8 school districts in that State with only one month of school; 60 school districts with only two months of school; and 557 school districts with only three months of school. And yet a great majority of the town and city schools in Arkansas have a school term of eight or nine months. That there are equally deplorable conditions in the rural schools of other States will be shown in the next talk. This discrimination against the farm boy and the farm girl in free school privileges is not just or wise.

Probably the most effective work yet done in this campaign for better rural schools was the impetus given to it by the National Conference for Better Rural Schools held at Nashville, Tennessee, November 17, 1915. President Bruce Payne, of George Peabody College for Teachers, presided. Delegates were in attendance from over 30 States. Commissioner Claxton delivered the principal address at this conference taking for his subject, "A More Efficient School System." He stated that the purpose of this campaign for better schools is to bring equal opportunity of education to every boy and girl in America, in the country as well as in the town. As a means to this end the Commissioner pointed out the necessary agencies as follows:

1. A School term of not less than 160 days for each child.
2. A sufficient number of teachers adequately prepared for their work.
3. Consolidation of rural schools with an average area of about 12 square miles for each school.
4. Teacher's home and a demonstration farm from five to fifty acres as a part of the school property.
5. An all-year session adapted to local conditions.
6. A county library with branch libraries at the centers of population, with schools used as distributing centers.
7. Community organization with the schools as the intellectual, industrial, educational and social center.
8. A modern high-class education for every boy and girl in America, in the country as well as in the town.

It is the intention of the Bureau of Education to issue a series of news letters in which the eight subjects named above will be thoroughly discussed for the purpose of giving the rural schools a square deal. To this end let every agency of State and Nation be organized and put in motion. The rural school problem is the greatest problem in American education; it demands the best thought and effort of educators, business and professional men if it is to be rightly solved. The public press is to be congratulated for giving publicity to these discussions for the benefit of the entire Nation.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET SOON

A number of important matters are to be considered at a board of education meeting to be held next Thursday, July 27. J. P. Lippincott, president, has authorized the call for the meeting, and it will be sent out Monday by Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson, secretary of the board. H. A. Perrin, the new superintendent, expects to be present at this meeting of the board. Among the matters before the board for discussion will be the employment of certain teachers who have not been decided upon as yet, fixing of the salaries of teachers, the payment of election expenses and a number of other important questions.

Supt. Perrin arrived in the city Saturday driving thru in his car from Lincoln. He will probably be here the greater part of the time after the coming meeting, as there are many details in connection with his new position which will require his attention.

Jacob Hoover and wife of Chapin were visitors in the city yesterday.

BLUFFS LUTHERAN PASTOR IS TENDERED SURPRISE

Friends Gather at Home of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Sorensen—Other News of Bluffs.

Bluffs, Ill., July 22—The friends of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Sorensen, pastor of the Lutheran church gathered at their home Thursday evening to help them celebrate their 5th wedding anniversary. At eight o'clock eighty-five guests arrived with well filled baskets and not only took them by surprise but took possession of the house as well. Mr. and Mrs. Sorensen were presented with a handsome oak dresser as a souvenir of the occasion.

LOCAL BOYS IN WISCONSIN.

According to letters received from the Jacksonville boys who are in the Wisconsin canning factories, the season for peas is especially good. The boys are working from sixteen to eighteen hours each day and are making from twenty to thirty cents an hour. This seems like a good while to work but in the Wisconsin climate sleep is not as necessary an article as it is here. According to reports Charles Peake was bitten by a bug and as a result was nearly the victim of blood poison, however he had the wound attended to and no serious consequences will be the result. They expect to be home in one or two more weeks.

RETURN FROM EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kykendall are again in the city after an extended trip in the east. Among the cities visited were Baltimore, Washington, New York City, Buffalo, Albany, Niagara Falls, Cleveland, and Detroit. The B. P. O. E. national meeting was in progress in Baltimore and while there Mr. and Mrs. Kykendall attended a number of the sessions. From Niagara Falls they crossed over into Canada for a short stay, and from New York went up the Hudson to Albany. The trip as a whole was a very enjoyable one.

David Henderson, Cecile Henderson, Ed Barr and Levi Deatherage were in the city yesterday from Arcadia.

Training

Left fatherless at the age of three, Hugh Green was trained up by his mother. She excited in him an ambition for an education, directed him thru district, common and high schools, influenced him to enter college and encouraged him to complete the course, and maintained an unwavering interest in his progress thru law school. Being graduated from the Nashville High School in 1905, at the head of his class, the young man accepted an offer of a scholarship from the faculty of Illinois College at Jacksonville, was graduated with the degree of A. B. in 1909, then accepted the offer of a scholarship from the faculty of the law school of Northwestern University, in Chicago, was graduated with the degree of LL. B. in 1912; accepted the offer of a partnership with Messrs. Worthington & Reeve, and since September, 1912, has been engaged in the general practice of the law as a member of the firm of Worthington, Reeve & Green, having now had experience in justice, county, circuit, appellate and supreme courts. From earliest boyhood he has been a regular attendant of the Methodist Episcopal church, the church of his mother.

Started Out for Himself Early

While going along, attempting to acquire an education, he worked for the principal part of the money required to pay his own way. During the four years in college he earned some by farm labor, some by common labor in Jacksonville, some as a clerk in Myers Bros. store on Saturdays and at holiday times; some as steward for a boys' boarding club. During his three years in law school in Chicago, he worked for his tuition in the library, and earned money as clerk and collector for the men's clothing and furnishing firm, Beachey & Lawlor. During both periods he was fortunate enough to receive material assistance from cash prizes in scholarship, debate, declamation, oratory, essay.

A Regular Republican, Always

In politics he has always been a regular Republican. In 1908 he was relied upon by the National College Men's Republican club as the local president; in 1912 was active as a speaker; in 1914 a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative for Sangamon and Morgan Counties, being defeated; after defeat, active as a speaker for the ticket, in the various precincts in Morgan county; also a member of the Executive and Finance committees of the county organization, and went as delegate to the Republican State Convention at Peoria.

Platform

He is well known as a man in favor of all good legislation tending to lessen the evils of the liquor traffic and has always voted "dry." He is in favor of county option. He is in favor of equal suffrage for women. He favors a constitutional convention. He favors a revision of the revenue laws. He favors the proper protection of industrial workers. He favors the good roads movement. He favors economy in the administration of public affairs.

Compensation

His earnest and untiring efforts to make something out of himself have caused many good people to become intelligently interested in him and to help him, and, altho poor in this world's goods, he is rich in warm friendships. His friends have encouraged his candidacy with an enthusiasm that is unmistakable evidence of his sincere belief that he is a suitable man, out of which to make for Sangamon and Morgan counties, a worthy representative. He earnestly solicits your loyal support, and, if nominated and elected, will strive to perform his duty so as to compensate you for voting for Hugh Green.

HUGH GREEN

Candidate for Member of the General Assembly from this District

Hugh Green, of the law firm of Worthington, Reeve & Green, has just announced his candidacy for Republican nomination as member of the general assembly from this, the 45th district. Mr. Green was a candidate two years ago and while he entered the race at a comparatively late hour, made an excellent showing and formed a wide acquaintance thru the district.

Mr. Green is one of the younger members of the Morgan county bar and has made an excellent record. His abilities as an orator are unusual and his services are frequently in demand on public occasions for that reason. Various facts relative to Mr. Green's life and work are given in a campaign pamphlet and the statement herewith is reproduced from that pamphlet.

Encouragement

For the two years last past, the name of Hugh Green has been mentioned frequently in connection with a seat in the General Assembly. Encouraged by repeated suggestions, he has considered the matter seriously, and consented to let his name go on the ballot. It being practically impossible for him to meet every voter in the District personally, he is obliged to take this method of making himself better known to you.

Birth and Ancestry

Hugh Green was born at Nashville, Washington County, Illinois in 1887. His father, Hugh P. Green, by occupation a farmer, born in St. Clair County, Illinois, in politics a follower of Lincoln, Grant, Logan, Yates, Cullom, served Washington county two years as treasurer, Francis B. Green, paternal grandfather of Hugh Green, was also a farmer, emigrated from Kentucky to Illinois, interested himself in the State legislators, entertaining them, as they were on their way, on horse, to Kaskaskia, the early capital; served in the Black Hawk war. Rebecca Parker Green, paternal grandmother of Hugh Green, emigrated to Illinois from South Carolina. Mary E. Green, mother of Hugh Green, emigrated to Illinois during the Civil War; as a girl and young woman, occupied herself with school teaching. Her father and mother came from Tennessee and Kentucky, respectively. To Hugh P. Green and Mary E. Green were born nine children. Hugh is the youngest.

SOME FARM THEMES.

Summary of Fifty Farm Records

Work on the 50 farm records taken near Washington this spring has been completed. Mr. H. C. M. Case, Urbana, Illinois who did the bulk of this work came back last week and went with me to return each man's record to him along with a summary of the fifty records taken. Great interest was manifested in these results which show quite plainly some of the points on which various men are weak in their system of management. There was a difference of $2868 between the highest and lowest labor incomes. The man that had the lowest labor income of the fifty has had four times as much experience in farming as the man who had the highest labor income. A number of the men who had extra good records are comparatively young, but every one of them is a careful manager and figures closely on his business. In a general way it worked out that the men who keep the most complete accounts are doing the best business. A statement has been prepared for each of the Farm Bureau members calling attention to the important factors which the records show to affect the profitability of farming.

E. T. Robbins Tazewell County Agricultural Agent.

Indianapolis Tractor Show

"The 'mystery tractor' which is to be shown for the first and only time at the gigantic tractor demonstrations at Indianapolis the week of August 28 has aroused an unusual interest in agriculture circle as well as among business interests. Definite assurance has been given by the management of the exposition that a tractor which does more work at less expense and costing much less than any of the present machines will be shown exclusively at the exposition in Indianapolis.

The promoter of the new tractor is known only to the management of the exposition and details as to construction and operation are withheld. It is known, however, that the manufacturer is one of the leading automobile manufacturers of the world and correspondence concerning the production of the tractor is coming from Detroit, Mich., and announcement is made that it will sell at an exceptionally low price. A lot of interest especially to the small farmers of the central west. It is believed that this tractor will revolutionize agriculture work thruout the United States and farmers consider it to their financial advantage to learn the operation and work of the new models. Possibly the Ford Tractor is to make its appearance.

WANTED---A Job. Will Work Twenty-four Hours a Day at Low Wages.

Without exception, I am the best servant that man ever had. Work is my delight. I would like to work for you. I do not ask high wages; in fact, I will work for very little and will expect pay ONLY for the time I am actually working. As to my character, I can refer you to anyone for whom I ever worked.

I am very strong and no task is too great or too tiresome for me. At the same time I am very gentle and I will obey the orders of a child as readily as those of the master of the house. I am quick. The lightning flash alone can move as quickly as I do on my errands.

I never tire, no matter how many hours a day I work. In storm or sunshine, at any hour of the day or night, I am always ready to respond instantly to a call. I never sleep. All through the night I can guard a home. I will turn the darkness into light of day.

All the disagreeable tasks of keeping house I will do far better than they have ever been done before. I will do the cleaning without raising and dust. The washing is easy with me to help; the ironing a cool and pleasant task. Cooking and sewing are recreations with me at hand.

I am clean all through—no dirt, no dust, no odor, no smoke will annoy you when I do your work.

When the day's work is done, I will take you for a spin into the country in my car or perhaps you will prefer a swift run upon the water in my boat.

In time of need or danger, I will not desert you. In case of fire or sudden illness, even in the dead of night, you need have no fear if I am near, for I will summon prompt assistance. Even if you are in mid-ocean, the ship a wreck and all hope seems to be lost, I will speed across the water and tell the whole world of your peril.

There is no limit to my usefulness and yet, strange to say there are many who do not ask me to help them often and there are some who have never tried me out at all. Perhaps they do not know how willing and anxious I am to help them.

It does not matter whether you are rich or poor, of high or low degree, I give to ALL the same loyal service. I leave behind me only pleasant memories of arduous tasks WELL DONE.

STATE SPELLING CONTEST RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

One Hundred Words Have Been Selected For Test Purposes—Organized County Contests Will Be Held.

Rules for the state spelling contest to be held in the senate chamber at Springfield on the opening day of the state teachers' meeting December 26 have been received by H. H.
Vasonellos, county superintendent of the following stipulations are included:

Each county shall be entitled to one representative.

All pupils in the first eight grades regularly attending the public schools during the year 1915-1917 shall be eligible to enter this contest. Eighth grade graduates are excluded.

Representatives to the state spelling contest shall be chosen by means of organized county contests approved by the county superintendent of schools. The details of the county contest are left to the county superintendent to work out in such manner as he thinks best for the schools of his county. The elimination plan is recommended, beginning with a spelling match in each school; the winners of these school contests to constitute a township contest; the township winner to participate in the county contest. All words used in the school, township, and county contests should be selected from the advanced spelling book and word lists as given in the seventh and eighth year orthography, state course of study.

The state contest shall be written. The test will be to spell words made for the analysis, definition, diceterical marking, or use of words in sentences. No proper names shall be included.

A list of 100 words will be selected for the state contest. Should there be a tie of lists of twenty-five words shall be pronounced from the above mentioned sources or from spelling books used in counties represented by the remaining contestants until winner is found.

Competent and disinterested persons will be chosen by the committee to select and pronounce words for the state contest.

A complete list of contestants
should be in the hands of State Superintendent F. G. Blair on or before December 20, 1916.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to the winners of the state contest.

Each county superintendent whose county enters a contestant shall pay a fee of two dollars ($2.00) to defray necessary expenses, such fee being paid to the state superintendent at the time the entry is made.

PROGRESSIVE FIRMS IN JACKSONVILLE

Long's Pharmacy, 71 East Side Square, has proven a desirable addition to the pharmacies of Jacksonville. In addition to a wholly complete stock of drugs, Mr. Long carries fountain pens, stationary, perfumes and toilet accessories. There is nothing which a well appointed pharmacy should have which is lacking at Long's, and the most courteous and careful consideration is accorded customers.

William Benson is the son of his father when it comes to sign painting. The elder Benson was one of the finest workmen that Jacksonville ever had and the son has inherited all of the father's ability. Originality and excellent workmanship are both apparent in the sign work that Mr. Benson constantly turns out from his establishment at 218 S.
Sandy street.

Otto Spieth soon after he became a proprietor of a studio in Jacksonville, won recognition as a member of the Photographers' Association of America. At each annual exhibition some of his work is displayed. Mr. Spieth keeps constantly in touch with the advances and developments of his art and Spieth photography has come to be locally a synonym of artistic excellence.

The public mind has changed mightily in the last few years about drinking water. They used to think that water from any old well if it looked clear was fit for human consumption, but now the people know better and realize that impure water is one of the most frequent causes of disease. This fact accounts for the increase of business of the Gravel Spring company. Analyses prove the absolute purity of Gravel Springs water and the bottled product is now sold in large quantities in a territory which spreads out widely from Jacksonville. People in Chicago and St. Louis are among the largest consumers of Gravel Springs water and the water compares favorably with other spring water sold in those cities.

D. E. Sweeney has for many years
made a specialty of lime, cement, and bricklayer's and plasterer's supplies and no one in Jacksonville is better informed on these lines. Mr.
Sweeney has been in the business for a great many years and knows the best brands and grades. A person who builds and specifies that these materials shall come from Sweeney's is certain of securing the best quality. Mr. Sweeney also handles reliable grades of coal.

"Famous" is the name applied to a certain line of coffees sold by Schra & Cully of the Claus Tea company, and the name is well applied. Famous coffees have a distinctive flavor and aroma, the result of a long experience in coffee roasting and blending. Making a specialty as they do of coffee, tea and spices, Messrs. Schrag & Cully give assurance to every customer that they can secure the best that the markets afford and at prices which are always within the limit of reason.

Coca Cola, if its consumption continues to increase, will before many days be justly entitled to the term
"the national drink." It has been comparatively few years since Coca Cola was first placed on the market and it has grown constantly in popularity since that time. It is an invigorating healthful drink. Coca Cola bottled in Jacksonville and various special flavors of soda water can be secured from the Coca Cola Bottling works, Illinois phone 1070.
There is nothing better for an invigorating summer drink than Coca Cola.

Some of the largest and best buildings in Jacksonville were erected by Vasconcellos & Sons. The firm has been entrusted too, with changing of store fronts and various small "jobs", and it is characteristic of all their workmanship that the same care is applied, no matter how large or how small the task. Vasconcellos & Sons have had abundant experience and the success which has attended their business career is the best testimonial of the correctness of the methods followed.

The business of the Columbian
Life Insurance company of Boston, under direction of Strawn & Spink,
has been developed in a very satisfactory way. The district under their general direction is quite extensive and reliable agencies have been established in various counties and cities. The firm writes life, accident and health policies and the very prompt settlements authorized by the company have emphasized the desirability of policies in the Columbian.

In any part of the city you visit
you are almost certain to see a Ford delivery car with Corsiff Bros. name on the covering. These young men have gained recognition as "pure food" grocers and their business has grown very rapidly during past months. They understand the grocery business thoroly and they are operating in a way which enables them to hold down the cost and thus they are able to give the benefit of low expenses to their customers. Corsiff Bros. live tradin stamps and have a service which certainly pleases customers.

Lee Tires, sold by the Jacksonville Automobile company, have a guarantee of 5,000 miles against puncture. Thousands of auto drivers can testify as to the durability of Lee Tires. The garage of the Jacksonville Automobile company, 315 East State street, is constantly a busy place because skilled mechanics are always at the beck and call of car owners. The work done in this garage is of the highest class and the charges are reasonable.

"Walsh lights it right" is the slogan which Mr. Walsh, of the Walsh Electric company has followed consistently ever since he established his business on East State street. That business has grown very rapidly owing to the efficient work that has been done on each "job" entrusted to the company's care. A splendid stock of fixtures is kept constantly on hand and Mr. Walsh has a thoro practical understanding of the electrical business.

The McCarthy-Gebert company is now employing nearly 100 men and yet they are behind with their orders.
El Macco, Mac's Own, Three Link, and other brands are made by this firm and the policy of maintaining an even high standard has resulted in constantly increasing demand for the McCarthy-Gebert goods. "Some cigar, gentlemen," can properly be applied to all the goods which this big factory is now producing.

The City Steam Dye works, of which E. A. Schoedsack is the proprietor, is one of the firmly established businesses in Jacksonville. It has been operating in the same location, 230 East State street, for a great many years and aside from Jacksonville Mr. Schoedsack draws work from quite an extensive outside territory. Cleaning, pressing and dyeing receive attention of the best kind at this establishment and when an order is left with Mr.
Schoedsack there is a certainty that it will be given competent and prompt attention.

Barr's Laundry work is in a class of its own and people who care about the quality of their laundry work have long since learned what the Barr methods mean. It was this fact which made the present large quarters on West Court street a necessity. There laundry work of every class is given its proper and prompt attention. A phone message to 447 will tell you anything further about Barr's that you want to know.

The Paige car stands at the very forefront of automobiles now offered to the people of the United States.
The Paige represent all the best ideas in automobile construction and has certain individual excellencies which characterize it. Ask any Paige driver what he thinks of his car and he will tell you the good points with enthusiasm. L. F. O'Donnell, Paige dealer, has had such an unusual demand for these cars this season that there has been difficulty in filling his orders.

S. L. Biggs & Son have been in the painting business for twenty years or more and are in position to give careful estimates on all classes of painting work. Their knowledge of workmanship and of materials enables them to give the most satisfactory service. Hundreds of satisfied patrons in Jacksonville can testify to the excellence of their work.

When DeSilva's lunch room was started on West State street, next to the Morrison block people did not expect such a rapid growth, but now DeSilva's is one of the popular eating places of the town. A speciality is made of hamburgers but the list of good things offered each day and night is wide and varied. Eat once at the DeSilva lunch room and you will become a regular patron.

The new Snyder ice plant was recently put into service and it is an establishment modern in its every detail. The capacity is much larger than the old plant which Mr. Snyder operated so successfully for many years and the ice is made by the most improved methods. In addition to caring promptly for an extensive local trade, the Snyder Ice & Fuel company is now shipping regularly to a number of outside points. If you have not been a customer of the Snyder company, buy your next coupon book there. A phone to 204 will bring the wagon.

Cain & Son are now at their new location, 223 West Lafayette avenue. The big building there is being wholly remodeled and when the work is completed the firm will have mill and storage capacity ample for their extensive business. Feed of all kinds is made a specialty and the public is quite familiar with the Cain service.

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2812 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Juliette Taylor, daughter of John Taylor and Mary Wharton Taylor, was born in Morgan county Feb. 6, 1839, and has passed the greater part of her life in and near Chapin.

About fifty years ago she was married to Mathew L. Hutches of Chandler and after a year's residence there moved to a farm near Chapin, and later to Chapin, where Mr. Hutches died in 1889. Four years later she was married to Capt. M. H. Lamb, who preceded her in death, Aug. 11, 1915. Since then she has been with relatives and friends. In early girlhood she united with the Christian church at Bethel and with others removed her membership to Chapin, becoming a charter member of the Chapin Christian church. Her acquaintance with the ministers of that faith has been very extensive, her great pleasure being to entertain them in her home.

Funeral services were in charge of Rev. Mr. Hadsaway at Christian church in Chapin at 1:15 p. m. Thursday. Interment in Jordan cemetery. The pall bearers were: Geo. Coulson, T. H. Stone, W. H. ### SATURDAY'S STOCK MARKET UNUSUALLY ACTIVE AND STRONG Special Stocks Again Afford Basis of a Large Proportion of Total Turnover.

New York, July 22.—Today's market was unusually active and strong. Special stocks again afforded the basis of a large proportion of the total turnover being in further demand by bears who suffered additional impairment of "paper profits."

Motor issues were particularly prominent. Munitions and allied shares were substantially better, together with tobacco, American Hide and Leather preferred, American Beet Sugar and the zinc issues.

United States Steel was the real leader at an extreme advance of 1 1/2 most of which was retained. There was a better tone to shares of the independent steel companies. Rails were held to a place of minor importance. Total sales of stocks amounted to 173,000 shares reflected a substantial cash gain, the actual increase of about $13,500,000 being in excess of all estimates. Bonds were steady today on nominal trading. International issues were firmer. Total sales par value $1,055,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

WHY A FEEDER IS QUITTING

(From Wallace's Farmer).

After an experience of fifteen years in feeding beef cattle, James W. Brockway is learning the dairy business. Down in southeastern Iowa, he is conducting an 800-acre farm. Dozens of his neighbors who also have fed beef cattle, are watching him. In the meantime, they are going slow in the feeding game, a business which formerly provided them a market for their corn and returned them some profit on the cattle they fed, but one which in recent years has been a losing proposition. Mr. Brockway is one of those who have fed and made money, and also fed and lost.

During recent years, while prices for finished cattle have been shuffled by the packers, as one would stack a deck of cards, Mr. Brockway says the feeder has been at the mercy of legalized gamblers, who take what they choose and give what is left to the farmer. In a game of poker, the professional gambler allows the victim to win at irregular periods just enough to keep him in the game. The victim continues to play, hoping he will get back the money he has lost, and for two or three years, Mr. Brockway has kept feeding in much the same spirit. Finally, he came to the conclusion that the packers knew how to handle the cards for their own interests, and that he had better quit, or, rather, grow out of the business as he had grown into it.

Margins between buying and selling prices used to be wider than they have been for the last few years, and often they were wide enough to more than make up for any loss encountered during the feeding process. These margins have disappeared for the most part, so that a feeder has to pay a price for his cattle nearly as high as that for which he can sell them. Under such conditions, when the feed for any gains costs more than the packers will pay for the finished product, Mr. Brockway can see little hope, but he can see how the feeding business might lead to a state of bankruptcy.

No one is blamed by Mr. Brockway for the present narrow margins. He has been thru the west and south, where he formerly bought thousands of cattle on the great ranges. He has seen these great tracts cut up into smaller pieces, and he has seen the cheap native grazing lands being transformed into alfalfa fields. Silos are being built, and cheap pastures are becoming scarcer and scarcer. The result is that the ranges which used to send in the feeders now are shipping finished cattle ready for the butcher. They no longer will consider prices they formerly were glad to get, but demand a price which corn belt feeders under present conditions can not afford to pay.

The breaking up of the range territory and the shipping out of fattened stock has proved a detriment to the corn belt farmer in two ways, according to Mr. Brockway. It has added largely to the cost of the raw product, and it has put more finished beef on the market, giving the packing interests an opportunity to keep down the prices to as low a point as possible. The time seems to have come when the corn belt farmer not only must pay a higher price for his raw product, but when he must compete with a finished product produced where land and feeds are cheaper than they are in Iowa, Illinois, or other corn belt states.

To justify one's sticking to the feeding business, Mr. Brockway feels that the finished cattle should sell for a reasonable margin over and above the cost of the feeder cattle, plus all labor, feed and incidental expenses connected with the business. No manufacturer, he says, would think of turning out a product which cost to make more than the buyer will pay for the finished article. The manufacturer starts with the cost of the raw product, and the expense of getting it to his plant; then he figures interest on investment, loss from depreciation or breakage, labor in handling it, transportation to its destination, and finally adds his percentage for profit. Mr. Brockway feels there should be some system of maintaining the fat cattle market at a point which would pay for the feeder cattle laid down on the farm, pay for the feed they consume, the labor it requires to handle them, pay interest on the investment, as well as allow for losses from death or accident sustained in keeping them, pay freight on them to the market, and finally leave at least a small margin for profit from the standpoint of a manufacturer.

Instead of such a condition, Mr. Brockway has seen times when he has had to sell steers which cost $20 or $30 a head more than he received for them. He has observed neighbors who have had the same experience, and, rather than to continue with a gloomy prospect, he is making a change to a phase of the live stock business which has a more promising and reliable future. It is not a matter of sentiment which is re-stocking Mr. Brockway's farm with dairy cattle, but purely a matter of business. Mr. Brockway is a cattleman, and from a standpoint of preference he would rather feed to put fat on the back than fat in the milk pail.

His experience as a cattle feeder emphasized the need of growing into the live stock business and of learning as one went. Mr. Brockway realized that dairy cattle would not get along with the same management that beef cattle required, and in order to get acquainted with the dairy business, he began on a small scale. Gradually the dairy type of cow is being substituted for the beef type, and in the meantime he is learning as he goes along.

In order to gain experience and to grow out of the beef feeding business into dairying, Mr. Brockway is milking the dual purpose Short-horn. In the meantime, he has a dozen or more Holsteins, from which he will increase his special purpose dairy herd. A pure-bred Holstein bull is at the head of the herd, and he possibly will be mated with some of the dual purpose cattle which give promise of becoming profitable milk producers. Most of the cows which are being milked at the present time, however, will be fattened and turned into beef as soon as they cease to yield enough milk to pay. When a cow freshens, she is placed in the milking herd, and kept there as long as the milk flow holds up to a reasonable amount. Then she is dried up and placed with the feeders. At the present time, about fifty cows are being milked.

The venture into dairying meant that a new barn had to be built. This was planned to give an abundance of light and ventilation, and the floors and gutters were cemented. A litter carrier was installed, to save labor in cleaning stables, and a truck was bought for conveying grain to the mangers. To solve the help problem, and to enable one man to take care of the maximum number of cows, a six-unit milking machine was installed. This is operated by steam, the same power running a cream separator and heating water for washing and sterilizing the dairy utensils.

Under the present system, the cows are milked in two relays of twenty-four each. The forty-eight cows are milked by two men in about an hour. Each man handles three units, but could manage another one or two with but little extra time. The men who manipulate the machines, also strip out the cows, and leave all milk in pails, which are picked up and taken to the separator by the dairyman, who has general supervision of the dairy operations. Before going into the dairy business, Mr. Brockway made quite a careful investigation of the milking machines, visiting several farms where they were in use. He found they were entirely practical, and were giving better service than the average hand in doing the same work. While the machines do not milk every cow completely dry, they get practically all the milk, are easier on the cows than men, and do it cheaper than hand labor, which is the really big consideration.

Mr. Brockway has not reduced his feeding practice to a regular system as yet, but he plans to work out a scheme which will give each cow an allowance of grain in proportion to the amount of milk produced. At the present time, he is feeding corn and cottonseed cake at milking time, in addition to silage and alfalfa hay, fed in outside racks. A milk-testing outfit has been ordered, and a system of individual cow records will be started with those which do not go into the feed lots. It is his aim to build up a high record herd, and possibly to work into all pure-bred stock. The same energy that was given the beef feeding industry will be turned to dairying.

The dairymen was hired on a co-operative basis, $50 a month in cash being guaranteed. In addition, the man gets his house rent, fuel, a garden plot and products from the farm. A record from the dairy was kept for the month of March, and this will be used as a basis for figuring any salary increase. The dairy income during March happened to be $250, which is less than a half or a fourth of what Mr. Brockway expects it to be when he gets it in full swing. To encourage the dairymen to do his best in developing the herd, Mr. Brockway will increase his salary by five percent of the gross income from the dairy over and above the $250 per month. For example, during April the income amounted to about $350, which would add $5 to the dairymen's salary. When the herd gets up to 150 or 200 special purpose dairy cows, the man figures his salary will be more than the equivalent of any he might earn in other channels for which his agricultural college training might fit him.

Present indications are that two dairy cows are the equivalent of three of the dual purpose kind, and that if all his milkers were the special purpose cows, his profit would be the same as he is getting from the fifty cows he now has. Mr. Brockway realizes, however, that a large dairy of heavy milking cows would require more expert management than his experience in feeding beef animals has given him, and for this reason that he had better learn the essentials of dairying before he specializes in it too extensively. In other words, he wants to grow into it rather than to jump into it, which possibly might land him in a disastrous hole. He does not aim to keep the combination cows any longer than will be necessary to give him the experience which he believes is necessary for the best interests of his dairy.

On the farm are raised an annual crop of several hundred hogs, which will get all the skim-milk that the calves can not use. Since he has been feeding the milk, a remarkable difference in the vigor and gains of the pigs have been noticed. Pigs which have had the skim-milk for the last few months, are as large as last fall's pigs raised in the usual way, and Mr. Brockway's only regret is that he does not have more milk available for hog feeding. All surplus skim-milk is loaded onto a wagon in cans, and hauled to the hog lots, where it is fed to the farrowing brood sows and their litters. Mr. Brockway's intention is to pipe it from the dairy room to the feed pens, and thus avoid the necessity of using a team twice daily. As soon as the pigs get a good start, they will be turned into alfalfa pastures, which, in the past, have enabled Mr. Brockway to make money on his hogs when otherwise they would have been fed at a loss.

As pointed out elsewhere in this article, Mr. Brockway is not making a change in his entire farming system for sentimental reasons, because he loves a good, fat steer when the animal does not cost him more than the packer will pay him for it. Dozens of other feeders in the same district, he says, feel the same as he does. In the past, they have made money, but during recent years the business has not been on a firm foundation. Any profit has been more the result of speculation than of business judgment, and the experience has caused them to come to a halt. Some of them are raising their calves, while others are selling their corn, which in the past found an almost exclusive market in the cattle and hogs. Mr. Brockway's dairy venture is being watched, and it gives promise of guiding others into the same business, which seems to be on a firmer foundation than the feeding proposition.

Just what to do with the product is a problem which Mr. Brockway has not solved, but he is making a study of several outlets. At the present time, he is selling the cream. He has considered the farm manufacture of ice cream, to supply local trade in the towns of his district, and he has given some thought to the possibility of making butter on the farm. The selling of whole milk does not appeal to him, as he wants the skim-milk product for his calves and hogs. Another market for his cream is to the ice cream manufacturers, and this outlet will be investigated.

CHARLES KLEIN ESTATE HAS BEEN APPRAISED

Values Placed on Numerous Well Known Plays

(From the New York Tribune)

"Potash and Perlmutter," dramatized by Charles Klein from the stories by Montague Glass, was appraised at $20,000 in the transfer tax appraisal filed in the surrogate's court. The dramatist was one of the victims of the Lusitania disaster.

"The Music Master," one of the most famous of Mr. Klein's plays, was appraised as of no value to the estate. Under an agreement between David Belasco and the author, Klein was to receive 8 per cent of weekly gross box office receipts up to $5,000 and 1 per cent thereafter. A supplementary agreement gave full control to Belasco.

"Maggie Pepper," one of Rose Stahl's later vehicles, was valued at $8,000. "The Guilty Man" was said by the appraiser to be so similar to "Common Clay," as to have no monetary value. "The Money Makers" was appraised at $500 and "The Ne'er do Well," dramatized from the novel by Rex Beach, $100.

"Paid in Full" (Interest) and "The Lion and the Mouse" were both valued at $100. "Cousin Lucy," written for Julian Eltinge and "Wall Street Gets Peasch and Perlmutter," contracted to be written for A. H. Woods, were both set down as being without value. As "The Third Degree" has been produced in stock all over the country, it was appraised at only $100.

Other valuation are: "The Gamblers," $1,000; "Classmates," $500; "Daughters of Men," $300; "Battle of the Giants," "The Cypher Code," "The Next of Kin," $1,500 for the three; "The District Attorney," $500 and "Doctor Belgraff," $500.

A valuation of $14,000 was placed upon eight plays sold to Sigmond Lubin for production in motion pictures. The estate's gross assets were found to be $169,000; net, $157,668. To his brother Herman Klein, the playwright left $5,000, and to another brother, Manuel, $1,000; his son, Philip was left $30,000, and another son, John Victor Klein was bequeathed a trust fund of $20,000. To his wife he left the residue, $101,668.

Mr. Jeffries had been in ill health for the past year and spent the past winter in the South. He returned to Chicago in May and was apparently greatly improved. He was engaged in the lumber business in Chicago.

He was united in marriage about five years ago to Miss Gladys Osborne who with one son, Gladys Osborne Jeffries, aged 4 years survives. It is probable that the funeral services will be held in Chicago today and the remains will then be taken to Zanesville for interment.

Only $1 Puts This New Hoosier

Prices Will Advance When this Allotment Is Gone.

Before the coming prices take effect, you may choose between the new "Hoosier Wonder" pictured here or one of the other celebrated Hoosiers—"Hoosier Beauty," "Hoosier Special" or "Hoosier De Luxe."

Hinged Door
"Hoosier Wonder" Advertised
in leading Magazines

The terms of this Hoosier Plan in our store are these:

1. $1 puts the cabinet you choose in your home.
2. $1 weekly quickly pays for it.
3. The low Cash Price fixed by the factory prevails strictly.
4. No interest. No extra fees.
5. This sale is conducted under the direct supervision of the Hoosier Company.

Only by grasping this opportunity at once can you be sure of getting your cabinet on the Hoosier Plan—and at the present low prices.

You realize of course that these terms could not be offered except on a very limited number of cabinets.

WHY PRICES MUST BE INCREASED.
50,000 cabinets—the entire spring output of the Hoosier factory—were sold in six weeks after they announced their new models. In some cities women have been unable for several months to get this most popular style.

Now the factory has made up 20,000 more for July and August sales. The next lot, after these are gone, must be sold at higher prices. This is due to the increased cost of all raw material entering into their manufacture.

OUR SALE MAY CLOSE ANY DAY

If all the women who need the Hoosier should come for it tomorrow, our full allotment of Hoosier Cabinets would be taken before night and the sale would close. This happened in some towns during a similar sale two years ago. Yet, if women delay, the sale may last a week or more. But which now is best for you—to take chances and miss this opportunity, or come to our store tomorrow so you can find out about this cabinet and decide before too late?

NORTH MAIN STREET BRIDGE APPROACH TO BE REPLACED

County Commissioners Plan For Fill To Take Place of Steel and Wood Structure

Arrangements have been completed by the county board for the removal of the long approach to the North Main street bridge over the Maudslayi river. In its place there will be a fill or embankment and the improvement will be greatly appreciated by the public. The approach and the bridge together are about 600 feet long and the construction of steel, the travel is such that the wood flooring is frequently jarred loose. As a result the safety of the public is menaced and in order to improve the approach and at the same time as a matter of economy the county board decided upon the fill. The plans and specifications were drawn by Road Superintendent Baldwin. The contract for tearing out the bridge and making the fill has been let to F. J. Blackburn. The work will be done under the direction of A. E. Williamson and will begin early this week. Necessarily travel on North Main street must be suspended while the grading work is in progress.

The earth for the fill will be taken from ground belonging to the C. B. & Q. east of the roadway. The width of the bridge is about 18 feet but the surface of the fill will be 24 feet, a change which is of advantage to the traveling public.

About forty members of the Woman's Relief Corps were entertained at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Grey on Friday afternoon. The main feature of the afternoon was a luncheon in which fried chicken played an important part. The house was attractively decorated with flags and at the table each one was the recipient of a small flag. ## RURAL CREDIT IS GIVEN TO HIM THAT HATH Features of the New Federal Farm Loans are Explained—Credit Banks are Provided—Benefits are Not Very Clear.

Features of the New Rural Credit Law.

Twelve federal farm loan banks are to be established in various parts of the country by a federal farm loan board at Washington. Ten or more farmers anywhere, may organize a local farm loan association.

Every farm loan association must take out bank stock to the extent of a per cent of every loan it makes.

No loan is to exceed 5 per cent. The security must double the loan. The money must be used to buy land or to make improvements.

Land given as security must be occupied.

To make a false statement is a felony.

It doesn't provide loans for landless farmers.

The following explanation of the new rural credits law appears in Capper's Weekly published at Topeka, Kans. A local banker commenting on it said yesterday that to him the explanation was the clearest he had seen.

With somewhat of flourish and ceremony, the Rural credit bill was signed by the president, Monday. He referred to it as a case of delayed justice. It is known as the Hollis bill and is one of 118 rural credit measures that have been introduced in congress during the last four years.

About the best thing that can be said for it is that the land given as security for a loan must be occupied.

It doesn't provide loans for landless farmers.

It does provide a lot of fine jobs at big salaries for a federal farm loan bureau of five members at Washington with the secretary of the treasury at its head. Four of them will receive $10,000 a year apiece.

This federal loan board will establish twelve federal farm loan banks but before a farmer can borrow any money the laws of his state will have to conform to the federal act, which requires uniformity of title transfer laws, of exemption laws, the repeal of exemption laws in regard to foreclosing mortgages and the uniformity of foreclosure laws.

This doubtless will take some little time.

Then if you are a land owning farmer and not a landless tenant, you can negotiate a loan.

Predictions are premature, but there are persons who believe the Hollis rural credit law will effect an economic revolution.

If the new rural credit banks are successful, then one of the most important benefits likely to arise from their success is inculcating in American farmers the habit of acting co-operatively. For the rural credit banks are to be co-operative. Ten or more farmers may organize a local "national farm loan association," which is the nucleus of the system. It elects as its head or secretary-treasurer, a local business man, and five directors who appoint an examiner. Eventually the farmers, who are borrowers, become the owners of the capital of the banks by virtue of the provision of the act which requires every local farm association to subscribe to the bank stock to the extent of 5 per cent of every loan it obtains for its members. If in this way farmers become used to acting co-operatively they will be likely to do so in many other ways.

Only one such association may organize in a community.

The twelve federal land banks to be created, are each to have a capital of not less than 3 million dollars. If individuals do not subscribe for the stock the secretary of the treasury is authorized to furnish the capital, and shares held by the government are not to receive any dividends.

No loan is to be made at a rate exceeding 6 per cent nor for more than 50 per cent of the value of the land mortgaged.

The mortgage loans are to be used by the federal land banks as security for bonds issued to sell to investors, and these bonds are to be free from national, state or local taxation. Holders of these bonds need only to send the coupons to the nearest land bank, which must pay them.

These banks will probably be organized as soon as their locations are determined at Washington.
